TURKISH ARMY IS IN FULL RETREAT

nople—200,000 Men in Rout.

FEAR MASSACRE OF MANY CHRISTIANS

Turks Will Make Stand at Tchatalja, Twenty-five Miles from Mohammedan Capital—Balkan Statesmen Believe Peace Is Near.

London, Nov. 1.—The Turkish army on which the fate of the Ottoman empire depended has been outgeneraled and outfought. It has made what is believed to be the last stand against the victorious Bulgarians and is now falling back in disorder on its final base of defense at the forts of Tchatalja, 25 miles only from Constantinople.

Grave doubts are expressed in military circles and repeated even in the Turkish capital as to whether the remnants of the immense army of the sultan will make any serious attempt to hold this line.

Foreigners in Constantinople fear for the safety of the Christian populations of the Turkish towns, and the European powers have taken steps in this connection by dispatch of warships to Saloniki, Constantinople and other Turkish ports for the protection of their citizens.

This is the most pressing question of the moment. One correspondent in Constantinople voices the fear of Europeans in that city that the Turkish retreat from Tchatalja might result in the outbreak of what is no longer an army, but a mob.

Old residents of Constantinople, who know the Turks thoroughly, say foreign warships could afford some protection at Saloniki, Constantinople and other ports, but declare the widely scattered missions and Christian populations are already seriously endangered.

Will Follow Advantage.
The Bulgarian troops, who have shown such dash since the opening of the campaign, are not likely to give the Turks much time to reorganize. It is true they have hundreds of killed and wounded, both Bulgarian and Turkish, but they are not likely to delay them somewhat. They had, however, similar difficulties to contend with after Kirk-Kiliseh and around Adrianople, but there was not a lull in the fighting there.

News comes today of the Bulgarians' occupation of the city of Adrianople, which has let it be known that the Bulgarians have had of deliverance from that quarter. Reports are that other lines of invaders are pulling themselves together for another move, which they hope will put an end to Turkish rule in Europe, the Serbians having completed the occupation of Macedonia and establishing civil governments there and are releasing some of their troops to go to the aid of their allies at Adrianople and for an attack on Saloniki.

Armies Converging.
Armies are converging from three directions on Saloniki. European powers are now keeping in touch with a view to acting in concert when the opportune moment arises. Bulgaria, however, has let it be known that Turkey must negotiate with the allied Balkan nations directly, so that all Turkey can do is to prepare to look after their own interests when the war is over.

The belief is held by some diplomats that the Bulgarian army will be compelled to enter Constantinople by military and other considerations. While the Bulgarians disclaim any ambition to retain Constantinople, they consider that the quickest way of arranging peace will be to dictate it to Turkey in its own capital. The Bulgarian army would also be able at the same time to protect the Christian residents there.

DECISIVE BATTLE WON.
London, Nov. 1.—The decisive battle of the war has apparently been fought and won, says a Sofia dispatch to the Times. The Turkish retreat eventually became a complete rout. The Bulgarians followed up the pursuit energetically, severely punishing the panic-stricken Turks and capturing great quantities of guns, flags, munitions of war and prisoners.

It is reported that Tchatalja has been taken and that the Bulgarians are advancing on Constantinople. The Bulgarian cavalry advancing on Kirk-Kiliseh and Eski-Baga reached Lule Burgas Tuesday morning. The cavalry was followed by the bulk of the combined armies of Generals Dimitrff and Kovatcheff later in the day. Here they encountered the main Turkish army under Nazim Pasha.

plies to the district where the fighting took place.

WAY IS OPEN.
Kustendje, Roumania, Nov. 1.—(By Wire) from Constantinople, Oct. 31, 11 p. m.)—The defeat of the Turkish army under Nazim Pasha opens the way to Constantinople for the Bulgarian troops. This will, in the opinion of diplomats, bring about European complications.

The most immediate danger concerns the position of this city. Most authorities agree that no real defense can be made along the Tchatalja line, supposed to protect the capital.

In the event of a hordes of beaten and demoralized soldiers falling back on the capital it is difficult to foresee what could save the city from sack and pillage. This fear is present with inhabitants, who believe that the fate of the Turkish empire hangs in the balance.

It is reported that a secret meeting was held recently in the mosque of Fatieh, the most fanatical quarter of Stambul, where inflammatory speeches were delivered by Musselman priests, who advised a rising against the Christians.

STORY IS VERIFIED.
Constantinople, Nov. 1.—The commander of the Feth-i-Bulend telegraphs that nearly all the crew of the warship were saved. He reports that the Greek torpedo boat entered the harbor unexpectedly at midnight and launched two torpedoes at the stern of the Turkish vessel, which began to sink immediately. The commander, three engineers and four bluejackets were thrown into the water and rescued by fishing boats. The boilers of the Feth-i-Bulend exploded as she sank.

The Feth-i-Bulend saw active service in the Danube under Herbert Pasha during the Turco-Russian war of 1878-79.

FIRE ON LIGHTHOUSE.
Sofia, Bulgaria, Nov. 1.—The Turkish cruiser Hamidieh discharged nine shells yesterday at the Cape Mine lighthouse, between the Bulgarian ports of Burgas and Varna. The lighthouse was damaged.

The Bulgarian government intends to protest against the bombardment of a building devoted solely to peaceful purposes.

REPORT BOAT SUNK.
Athens, Greece, Nov. 1.—The Turkish battleship Feth-i-Bulend was sunk last night in the Gulf of Saloniki by a Greek torpedo boat.

The Greek commander's daring enterprise was carried out under the guns of the Turkish forts without being observed and the torpedo boat escaped unscathed.

BATTLESHIP IS SUNK.
Constantinople, Nov. 1.—The sinking of the Turkish battleship Feth-i-Bulend by a Greek torpedo boat in the Gulf of Saloniki is confirmed in a dispatch from Saloniki. The warship sank in five minutes. Part of the crew was on shore at the time, so that the number of lives lost is not known.

NEGOTIATIONS IN PROGRESS.
Vienna, Nov. 1.—Negotiations are in progress between representatives of Bulgaria, Serbia, Montenegro and Greece with a view to reaching an agreement in regard to their demands on Turkey at the conclusion of hostilities, according to the Neue Freie Presse.

HAVE NOT AGREED.
Berlin, Nov. 1.—The European governments have not yet agreed whether to intervene in the Balkan war or to offer mediation at the present moment or after the expected battle at Tchatalja, 35 miles from Constantinople.

TAKE TURKISH TOWN.
Sofia, Nov. 1.—The Bulgarian army today occupied the Turkish town of Demotika, thus completely cutting off the possibility of communication between Adrianople and Constantinople.

GREEKS TAKE ISLAND.
Athens, Nov. 1.—The Greeks today occupied the Turkish island of Samothrace, in the Aegean sea. Its population numbers about 5,000, most of whom are Christians.

Belgrade, Nov. 1.—A third levy of conscripts has been ordered by the Serbian war office. The men, as soon as they are equipped, will be dispatched to the territory occupied by the Serbians in Macedonia, where they will act as a reserve.

The strength of the Serbian armies has astonished the inhabitants of the conquered country and especially the Musselman armaments. These are now abandoning the Turks and taking the oath of allegiance to King Peter of Serbia.

Many of them have given up their arms and at the same time disclosed the names of the chief supporters of the Turks and of the authors of massacres of Christians.

Roads Have Violated
Shipping Laws.

Omaha, Neb., Nov. 1.—Indictments against four railroad companies charging them with violations of the laws in connection with the shipment of alfalfa food from Omaha to points in nearby states were returned by a grand jury in the federal court here today.

In connection with the indictments was an announcement of the district attorney's office here saying other indictments were likely to follow because of the intention of the government to force carriers to maintain published rates in order to prevent discrimination.

ELECTION IN CUBA TODAY

Police and Troops Guard
Polls to Suppress Factional Fights.

Havana, Nov. 1.—The general election, on which the fate of the Cuban independence is believed to depend, opened auspiciously. Despite the almost unanimous predictions that the election would be marked by nationwide disorders, the hope is now rising that whatever the result may be, the registering of the popular vote will be effected in exemplary order.

The voting began at 6 o'clock and will continue until sundown. Many voters awaited the opening of the polls to cast their ballots, and these were compelled to disperse afterwards by police and troops.

Throughout the city during the morning there was complete tranquility. This is largely due to the extensive military precautions taken and to the realization in all quarters that the occurrence of serious factional disorders would almost certainly result in the downfall of the republic.

Another factor working for peace is the realization by both parties that their opponents are fully armed and prepared for a fight at a moment's notice, as was shown by the battle on the Prado a week ago.

The approaches to every polling place in Havana were guarded by strong detachments of infantry and artillery men, who stood on sentry duty with fixed bayonets, challenging all comers and not permitting anybody except voters to pass, and these only singly.

All the side streets, too, were patrolled by squads of cavalry and infantry, and the main bodies of troops were held in reserve ready to rally on the first alarm.

For the first time in the history of Cuba the sale of alcoholic liquors was prohibited, all bars and cafes being closed by presidential decree.

Another decree prohibited the carrying of arms of any kind, even the lightest walking canes being included.

Reports from the interior show order has been maintained. The total number of registered voters is 628,356, of whom it is thought probably only 70 per cent will go to the polls.

Correspondence of In-
in Dynamite Case.

Indianapolis, Nov. 1.—Seven hundred letters were brought before the jury in the "dynamite conspiracy" trial today to be read as evidence against the 45 defendants. They were the correspondence taken from the office of the International Association of Bridge and Structural Iron Workers after J. J. McNamara's arrest.

It is charged the letters selected from 30,000 show that for five years Frank M. Ryan, president of the union, and the other defendants corresponded about "jobs" that were to be blown up.

The letters which the government contends will show a conspiracy illegally to transport explosives on passenger trains, were included in the indictment and already have been made public.

District Attorney Miller said he expected to read all of the letters before Orrie E. McManigal, the government's chief witness, testifies.
